

Dear Parents,

This week the students continued their final Jewish values unit of this year's ShalomLearning curriculum: Shalom.

Recap:

- Participants learned about Jewish role models who were pursuers of peace.
- Participants analyzed how far one should go for the sake of peace.
- Participants learned how to describe the story of Aaron and the golden calf.

My.ShalomLearning.org Activity for next week: 6.7.2

Shalom Week 2

Next week:

Next week the students will grapple with the question: How far am I willing to go to be a pursuer of peace?

Table talk:

Our tradition tells us that each of us is supposed to be a rodef shalom, someone who pursues – or chases – peace. Ask students: What do you think chasing peace looks like?

Have a great week!

Sincerely,

Stephanie
